POST-STORM PREPAREDNESS: RESTOCK YOUR SUPPLIES

After a hurricane or tropical storm comes through your area, it's important to restock emergency supplies and go over your family emergency plans. Consider what went right and what went wrong and talk to your family about how to improve your plans.

Some states have been hit repeatedly by hurricanes and tropical storms over the course of a single storm season. That's why you should replenish emergency supplies after every storm.

- First-aid kit, prescription medications, copies of prescriptions, other special medical items, hearing aids and batteries, eye glasses
